MGEM

Master in Global Entrepreneurial Management College of Management, Fu Jen Catholic University

The College of Management of Fu Jen Catholic University, the IQS School of Management of Universitat Ramon Llull, and the College of Business Administration of Loyola Marymount University are AACSB accredited academic institutions in Asia, Europe, and America, respectively. With global recognition for teaching quality and research capabilities, their credits and programs are recognized by all AACSB accredited universities. As international society is changing rapidly, MGEM has selected a diverse array of outstanding candidates from around the world and offered them programs taught in English to cultivate their creativity, innovative thinking, and entrepreneurship. Through visits to multinational corporations around the globe, students are given the opportunities to network with renown international and professional organizations. After graduation, they will receive a master's degree issued by Loyola Marymount University and accredited by Fu Jen Catholic University and IQS of Universitat Ramon Llull.

Program

In the span of a year, students engage in innovative, creative, entrepreneurial and international business environments through the joint-program offered by the College of Management at Fu Jen Catholic University, the IQS School of Management at Universitat Ramon Llull, and the College of Business Administration of Loyola Marymount University. Compared with programs offered by similar academic institutes, MGEM has the following distinguished features:

Obtain a Master's Degree Accredited by 3 Universities within a Year

After completing all of the academic requirements within a year, international students in the MGEM program will obtain a master's degree issued by Loyola Marymount University, which is also accredited by Fu Jen Catholic University and the IQS at Universitat Ramon Llull.

Develop Global Vision and Build International Connections

MGEM gathers elite students from different cultural backgrounds together in the same program. Through the seminars, courses, internships and corporate visits tailor-designed by the three academic institutions, students are given the opportunity to network with business people and administrators worldwide and are exposed to both global perspectives and regional cultures.

Establish a Creative, Innovative Spirit and Entrepreneurship

With a dual emphasis on theory and practice, students can sharpen their innovative spirit and cultivate ideas in Spain; master the intricacies of the supply chain and market analysis in Taiwan; and synthesize what they have learned in the US. Based on this arrangement, students will become creative entrepreneurs who are properly equipped with the necessary management skills for a global context.

Advance Career Options and Find your Ideal Career Path

All these above three universities feature a global study, customized career services, and provides students with the skills and experience to take the career to the next level. By joining MGEM, students will receive a superior education that puts them on a path to professional success and helps them plot out their dream jobs.
